TIELEPHONE EXCHANGE

The Great Northern Telegraph Company (amalgamated with the Oriental Tole phone Company, Limited, as regards Telephone Lines in Hongkong and China), with transfer of "letters patent," for the use of improvements in Telephones invented by THOMAS ELVA EDISON, ALEXANDER GRAHAM BELL, ARNHOLD WEITE, FREDERIC ALLEN GOWER, &c., &c.

BELL AND EDISON'S SYSTEM. Permission having been granted by the Government to establish a Telephone Exchange in Hongkong, the above Company hereby begs to invite Subscriptions from the Public. Throughout Europe and America Telephone Exchanges have already gained such a reputation by facilitating daily intercourse and by ensuring the safety of private and public property, that they may now be considered indispensable in all large Cities and Business Centres. Hongkong with its vast commercial transactions and valuable property, is essentially a place where a wellconducted Telephone Exchange will be of the greatest use, and in laying this Prospectus before the Public, the Company hopes that it may count upon the general support not only of the merchants and professional members of the Community, but also of the different Government Departments in order to render the service as flicient as possible. The Exchange will be worked in the following way, viz: a Head Office will be established in the central part of the town provided with the best Telephone appliances according to the newest and most approved European and American inventions. Each subscriber will be supplied with a complete set of Instruments, and will be put in direct communication with the central office by separato wires. When wishing to use the Telephone a Subscriber will only have to call the Central Station and give the name of the party he wishes to speak with the wires are then immediately switched together, and the two Subscribers will be in direct communication with each other. When they have finished. the Central Office is notified to that effect by a Bell Signal, the wires are then disconnected, and any other connection can be made if desired, and so on. The dialogue between the subscribors is of course quite private, and can only be heard by the two parties concerned. It should distinctly be understood that the messages are not spoken to the Central Office, and thence transmitted to the person to be communicated with, but the two wires are simply switched together, thus forming one continuous line, over which conversation can be carried with perfect case and privacy. The Central Office will, if practicable, be open to the general public, so that any person can thence communicate with the Subscribers. For this service non-subscribers would have to pay a small fee according to the time they occupy the wire.

The Telephones used by the Company are the Combination-Bell-Edison. These Instruments, which are far superior to all other Telephones on account of their great distinctness of sound, combined with easy management, have met with unrivalled success throughout the world, and are now also adopted by the British Government Departments in England and India, The subscription fee will to some extent depend upon the number of subscribers, but the price will not exceed $150 per annum for town subscribers. The following boundaries will be taken as terminating the town, viz. West .- The Gas work. East. -Police Station No. 2. South.-Caine Road and Kennedy Road, etc. Eubscriber outside these limits would have to pay a proportionally higher charge according to Proximo. LAUNCHES: named Cum Loong, Cum Sing; proportionally inglied and the difficulties the length of wire required and the difficult ties tu le overcome in constructing and maintaining the line. The subscription will be binding for one year, payable quarterly in advance.

All maintenance expenses of Instruments and wires are included in the above price and the subscribers will have nothing to pay beyond the fixed annual charge. The Central Office will be under competent supervision, and an efficient staff of clarks will be in attendance during office The Company will also undertake to make private arrangements for persons wishing to be in direct communication wit their offices, godowns, sto, and to take over the maintenance of such lines at a

In order to expedite the work, subscribers are requested to send in their names to the undersigned agent at an early date: Should sufficient support not be received the Company is not bound to establish the

BLUE BOOK.

To conclude our remarks upon the give credit to Sir J. Pope Hounessy. having put a stop to the system of informers; which, carried out as it was inspectors who cannot be regarded as s milar to that under review, this mas-Per S. S. Saghalien, sailed on the 5th trustworthy, was an abuse. This action lerly despatch comes to a close. would, however, have been much more creditable to the Governor (as we have frequently pointed out) had he taken steps to carry out the disagreeable duty of detection by some better means. instead of rendering the law a dead letter by guarded inaction. The result is, that the Colony is now in a state which will very soon demonstrate the unsoundness of Governor Hennessy's entire policy on this question. Another point upon which the Governor has laid much stress is the so-called isolation of the money derived from the fees and fines imposed by the C. D. Ordinance. As we have often shown during the course of this discussion, the seeming reform alluded to may also be put down as something accomplished by Governor Hennessy, although the majority of our readers will allow that the change was far more apparent than real, and that the alteration in the actual practice was has gone to Aberdeen, and the Assac has more a matter of detail than of principle. The leading points that necessarily stand come out. out in the Papers lately submitted to Parliament are certainly not those which Wa hear that a Concert will be given tritle shed lustre upon the present Governor Catholic Circle on the evening of the 80

the object of the Commission, so far as His Excellency was concerned, was two-fold - first, to furnish an opportunity of bringing vague charges against certain officers whom he did not love; and secondly, to enable him to object to the principle of official interference with C. D. matters in any way whatever. This may look like strong language; but it is borne out both by the despatches of Sir J. Pope Hennessy imself, and by those written in reply by the three Secretaries of State who ruled the destinies of the Colonial Office during the period covered by the Correspondence now before us. . Indeed, it may safely be said that the revelation made in this blue-book is one which cannot fail to strike the most careless reader as a most unique example of what our Colonial system is capable. It is clear that the dissatisfaction at the fountain head of power has been almost as freely expressed as has the general discontent of Hongkong residents even in its most bitter outbursts. And still the relief to which all this accumulated displeasure unmistakeably points does not come, and Sir J. Pope Hennessy is now the occupier of the official residence and in the possession of the emoluments thereunto belonging. Men possessed of sensitive temperaments regard official rebuffs in a light which materially differs from that of men differently constituted. Governor Hennessy, however, line evidently been so schooled to combat and to the official: system of accepting censure that he remains unmoved by the most cutting animadversions by his superiors. The lack of sympathy for his tactics exhibited at the Colonial Office has evidently induced him to endeavour to find an equivalent amongst societies and individuals at Home whose predilections ensured him an indirect species of support. Hence the effusion from the Committee in London for the Repeal of the English C. D. Act, and the one-sided expressions of opinion from other "unofficial persons, to whom the so-called impartial revelations of Colonial iniquity had been carefully conveyed. It is curious to note the difficulty presented to Governor Hennessy in reconciling his horror at the disclosures of the O. D.O. Commission with the existence of the system known as Domestic Slavery which he has so sturdily defended. The London Committee before alluded to "trusts that he (the Governor) may be spared to witness the entire abolition of slavery in the Colony, now that his Honor Chief Justice Smale has declared it incompatible with British freedom. This was decidedly an inconvenient expression of opinion, which tended to neutralise the effect of the other approving portions of the resolutions passed by that well-meaning body; and it is, as we have said, curious to observe how His Excellency first alludes to the connexion between the brothel system and the traffic in human beings. and then, although seeing his mistake is compelled by the Colonial Official magnates to show how the Ordinances have intensified that form of slavery,

In the despatch in which Lord Kimberley sums up the whole subject, the Commissioners are thanked "for their services and for the time and labour which they devoted without reinuneration to investigating this intricate and unpleasant subject." The conclusions arrived at by the Commissioners, however, cannot be accepted, for various reasons,-the report is that of a majority only, as Mr Keswick discented in very important points; the evidence was neither impartial nor in harmony with the conclusions arrived at : the original scope of the inquir was enlarged, but the official history of the legislation is shown to have been misinterpreted by the Commissioners; At Chefoo, on the 26th November, at the protection of the unfortunate women dealt with was as much the original intention of such legislation as the medical inspection. These and many other considerations are brought forward and exhaustively discussed in this abla document; and the general conclusion arrived at by the Secretary of State, is, that, instead of dwelling persistently on the abuses of the system in force, it would have been better had His Excellency set to work vigorously to remove them. Lord Kimberiey draws especial attention to the necessity of procuring thoroughly trustworthy and carefully-selected inspectors carry out the new regulations that may be rendered necessary, and that such men could be obtained in England if they are not procurable on the spot. His concluding instructions are couched in the following words:-" I have in conclusion to request you to take this whole subject into your careful and early consideration, and to transmit to me, with as little delay as possible, the draft of any Ordinance or Ordinances which you would propose to before the Legislative Council." And with the copy of a letter from C.D.O. Correspondence, we may frankly Captain Hotham, of H.M.S. Churubdis. testifying to the satisfactory working of an Ordinance in the Straits Settlements

To avoid any inconvenience from the weather, an awning was erected from the exsreme end of the pathway to the Club portico, and the avenue thus made was docorated on either side with flowers and exotic plants. The entrance hall was extensively decorated with flags, the most important feature of the entrance being sumi-circular flower-stand near the central pillar in the vestibule. The sides of the entrance were ornamented with flags of all nations, the most conspicuous being the Japanose and Chinese standards, all producing a good effect. The staircase leading to the ball-room was draped with flags of all nations, and also laid out with exotic and other plants. The ball-room itself was decorated in the usual way. The particular decorations were the banners, which presented the clans Macleod, Stuart, Campbell, Macgregor, Macfarlanc, Donald, Grant, Drummond, Scott, chanan. McPherson, Robertson, others. The verandali was bourded in and was utilised as a retiring room, at the south and of which was a fountain, surrounded by rockery work which had a very pleasing of. fect. Can of Shanghai, and formerly District Grand | it be true that the Cross of St. George will be conspicuous by its absence during the winter in Tientsin? The Admiral might have sent us a gunboat, even if only wlittle one, to cheer and comfort our lonely British hearts through the long and dreary winter. Your recent observations on the working of the guns in the new gunboats are very just, what is required are four seamen gunners who have been well trained, and a gunnery lieutenant for each gunboat, these men will do the work for which they come out and will be able to teach the crews the practical working of the guns. But China ought to establish a naval school, and adopt some uniform practice, and give over the international pot nourri business. Yes, it is true the old warrior, General Tso, leaves Peking in two weeks for his home in Honan before he assumes the Governor Generalship of the Stang-Kiung .- Courier Correspondent.
